

Bunnies 3.0

Released July 17, 2009

Copyright 2009 Ben Kucenski

Story

The Nazis are at it again. They've created a super breed of giant bunnies that will eat all the green vegetation on the planet. If they succeed global warming will increase at an alarming rate and the earth's oxygen supply will be depleted. If you do not want to buy oxygen and air conditioners at a premium price from Nazis I suggest you get to work quickly destroying all the bunnies and all the Nazis who created them and protect them. You must get them and their little dogs, too. Failure in either goal will result in the destruction of life as we know it. The bunnies multiply quickly so you must destroy them as fast as you can before you are overwhelmed by them.

Requirements

Windows XP/Vista/7

.Net 3.5 Framework

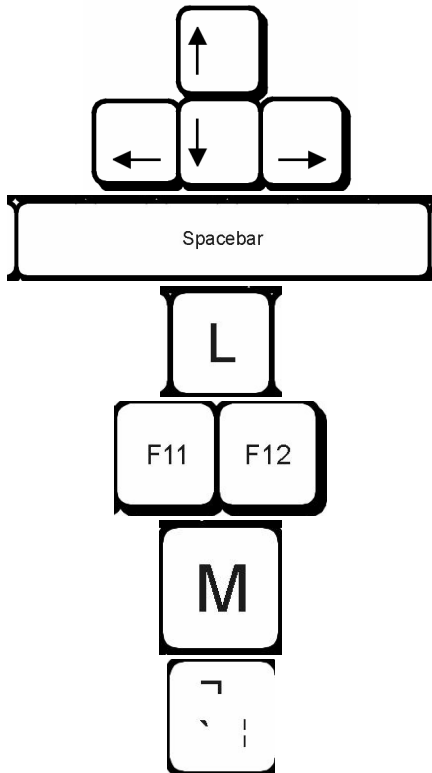

Internet Connection – Broadband recommended

1.5Ghz or faster CPU

256MB Ram

50MB disk space

In Game Controls

Up – Move forward

Down – Move backwards

Left – Turn left

Right – Turn right

Spacebar – Shoot. Hold down for rapid fire.

L - Turn lighting effects on/off

F11 – Start/Stop recording video

F12 – Take single screenshot

M – Enable/Disable Bumpmapping

~ - Enable/Disable Chat Mode

Settings

There are several configuration values in bunny.exe.config

server_host/server_port

This tells the game where to connect to the game server. These two settings should never need to change.

username/password

If you have a Bunnies account from <http://bunnies.dawnofthegeeks.com> you can enter your login information here. It is required for multiplayer.

map

This is the initial starting map. Maps can contain any number of exits to get to other maps.

You can view the available maps at <http://bunnies.dawnofthegeeks.com/index.php?a=main&s=maps>

resource_host

Bunnies will automatically download any files it needs to play the maps from the resource host. This value should not need to change.

Contact

For additional information please visit

<http://bunnies.dawnofthegeeks.com>